

Celebration of 125 Years of Topographic Mapping

U.S. Geological Survey National Center

Dallas Peck Auditorium

December 3, 2009

Call to order: Dr. Charles Ogrosky, Master of Ceremonies

Welcome: Dr. Marcia McNutt, Director, U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) (video)

Musical Program: Duke Ellington School of the Arts Concert Chorale, Washington, DC. Under the direction of Samuel L. Bonds.

Introductions: Robert Doyle, Deputy Director, USGS

“National Mapping – National Benefits”: Anne Castle, Assistant Secretary for Water and Science, Department of the Interior

“Mapping at the USGS – A Brief Look at Our History”: Mark DeMulder, Director, National Geospatial Program, USGS

“Building on 125 Years of Topographic Map Information – New Products and Services”: Kari Craun, Director, National Geospatial Technical Operations Center, USGS

“USGS Topographic Maps and Data – A Personal Journey and Look Ahead”: Dr. David Cowen, Distinguished Professor Emeritus, University of South Carolina

Awards: Robert Doyle, Presenter

- The Henry Gannett Award

- Topographic Employee Recognition Award

Reception in the Art Hallway